Summer business:

Well, at least we're beating the Dow

By ALISON ALOISIO

It started as a mixed bag, but summer business in the Bethel area seems to have gained positive momentum in the past two weeks.

How the summer has gone so far depends on the business, making it difficult to draw solid conclusions. But there do seem to be some trends.

As is the case nationwide, tourists here appear to have traded their airline tickets and hotel reservations for RVs in an effort to economize and feel safer as they travel.

Mike Madore, who has owned the Pleasant River Campground in West Bethel for the past four years, said the summer of 2002 "will probably turn out to be one of our best years."

"July has been very strong," he said, and in the past two weeks Canadian business in particular has picked up. August also looks good, said Madore.

It's a similar story at Stony Brook Recreation and Camping in Hanover. "Our RV traffic has been great," said owner Bruce Powell.

In addition to the economy and perceived safety of camping travel, Powell also attributes the good business to the growing recreational offerings of the area. He's each made by hand since Sept. 11, graced the Overland Jeeps of Maine's first-place float in this year's Mollyckett Day parade. Shown here on the float are Jr. Marine Josh Livingston, of Oakland; and Meredith White (Miss Liberty); Angela Hooper (Betsy Ross) and James Kimball (Uncle Sam), all from Albany. The theme for this year's festival was "America the Beautiful." For more Mollyckett Day photos and results, please see pages 6 and 7. (Photo: A. Aloisio)

Local man faces child-sex charges

By ALISON ALOISIO

A 29-year-old Hanover man has been arrested on charges of gross sexual assault and unlawful sexual contact with an eight-year-old girl.

Keith Testani was charged Monday with nine counts of unlawful sexual contact (a Class B felony) and one count of gross sexual assault (Class A felony), according to Darren Tripp, Bethel police chief.

Tripp said the girl reported the contact to one relative on Sunday and to a second one on Monday. All were interviewed by police, he said.

Testani was then interviewed for two hours Monday by Sgt. Henry Grenier. During that time, said Tripp, he admitted to having sexual contact with the girl at least nine times over a period of more than a year. The last contact happened Sunday, the victim reported.

Testani is currently in the Oxford County Jail, with bail set at $10,000 cash or $50,000 single surety, Tripp said.

The Class A felony can carry a sentence in excess of 10 years, while the Class B charges can result in 5- to 10-year sentences, Tripp said.

Deal straightens Telstar pipeline problem

By MICHAEL DANIELS

SAD44 has agreed to pay landowner Bob Chadbourne $7,500 for a water main easement over 500 feet of land near the Alder River.

In addition, the district will pay for construction of a 90-foot line of 8-inch sewer line from the pump station at the Telstar complex across to the south side of Route 26 (where it will be available for future sewer hookups).

The cost of the sewer line is expected to be approximately $5,000, according to SAD44 Superintendent Kent Rosberg.

The district has also agreed to pay any out-of-pocket legal cost incurred by Chadbourne, Rosberg said, which would bring the total cost of the easement to somewhere in the neighborhood of $13,000.

Prior to Tuesday's easement agreement with Bob Chadbourne, SAD44 considered seeking eminent domain, or rerouting water line twice more across Route 26

The agreement was reached Tuesday afternoon, with water main construction bearing down hard on the area of the brook.

The construction is part of a $804,000 project approved by district voters in June, to extend the town's sewer and water infrastructure to the Telstar complex.

Impasse resolved at last minute. Prior to Tuesday's agreement the parties involved — SAD44, Chadbourne Tree Farms and the Bethel Water District — had been stymied for several weeks, with the school district refusing to accept Chadbourne's earlier demands (which have not been made public) for the easement.

At a meeting last week of the BWD Board of Trustees, district superintendent Lucien Roberge told the trustees that he had been told by the project engineer that "negotiations fell through with Bob Chadbourne."

By last week, in fact, the situation had reached the point that SAD44, was exploring two other options: 1) reroute the water line to the other (north) side of Route 26 for a short distance, then bring it back to the south side; or 2) have the BWD take the easement by eminent domain. (The Water District has that authority, subject to approval by the Maine Public Utilities Commission, according to Town Manager Scott Cole.)

However, at a recent Water District meeting, the trustees (who did not take direct part in the easement negotiations) voted against rerouting the water line.

John Head argued that running the line under a state highway

Backhouses are hardly out of the picture here

Reports of the demise of the Maine outhouse may have been greatly exaggerated.

A recent Associated Press story noted that in the Pine Tree State, "a longtime part of the rural landscape — the outhouse — is quickly vanishing."

By ALISON ALOISIO

The article goes on to say the time will come when no one will have any memories of outhouses.

But in this area, at least one segment of the rural population disputes the claim.

On Concord Pond in Woodstock, many lakeside camps have old outhouses. And the residents aren't just storing their fishing tackle in them. "All the ones up here are being used," said Margaret Hardy, whose family has had a camp on the pond for years.

While Concord Pond may be a more extreme example, a check of other area ponds also reveals backyard backhouses still in existence.

A few of them continue with their original use, although often serving simply as backups when indoor plumbing backs up.

That's the case with Glenn and Diana Johnson's 100-year-old outhouse behind their camp on Songo Pond. Built in 1902, it now offers modern-day tissue instead of the traditional Sears catalog. The outhouse is there if the camp plumbing fails, or a large crowd comes to visit, said the Johnsons.

Richard LeCompte, Upton selectman and assessor, reports that in studying his mental map of the town, he counts 16 outhouses still in existence, some on Lake Umbagog.

And not all the outhouses out there are carryovers from an earlier time. Marvin Ouwinga, who has a

Albany ponders how best to approach LURC

By REBECCA ZICARELLI

Albany used to be a town. But when vast areas of the town were added to the White Mountain National Forest, it became too expensive to remain one. Albany unincorporated and became part of the Unorganized Territories.

It is still too expensive to be a town. Residents decided this again last year. But those residents still have a sense of community, even if they don't have the right of self-regulation inherent to a town.

Sunday, 20 residents and landowners struggled with how to express that sense of community and the desire for self-regulation to the Land Use Regulation Commission (LURC).

The residents came to discuss approaching LURC with a plan to develop land-use regulations specific to Albany Township. After their long battle against a high-stakes bingo hall proposed by the Passamaquoddy Tribe, they were searching for a legal way to control development, particularly large-scale development, in Albany.

In the bingo battle, they discovered that development in Albany didn't have to benefit Albany to be approved. It could benefit the entire state, or a tribe on the other side of the state, no matter the impact here.

Albany finally won the bingo battle, after an expensive court battle. But they suspect they didn't win the war.

As one landowner said, "Next, it could be Wal-Mart."

REMEMBERING AN AMERICAN HERO

To the Editor:

Ted Williams not only was a great baseball player but also served his country in the military without complaining.

Back in the '60s, I attended Ted Williams Baseball Camp in Lakeville, Mass. as a counselor. Williams was on the practice fields almost every day, as he had recently retired from baseball, and I had numerous encounters with him.

The first time I ran into him, I said something like "Hi Ted." He instantly pulled me aside and said, "You call me Mr. Williams, son." He demanded respect and got it. I learned a lesson from that one. My fur customers always ask me why I write their name with a "Mr." in front.

One other occasion that endeared me to Ted (Mr. Williams) for life was when he was walking down to a practice field one day, took a sharp left-hand turn and walked right over to my father, Haakon Olson, and had a lengthy good old boy country talk. Thinking back on it, those were the two greatest men I've ever known.

One funny occasion with Mr. Williams was as follows. We were taking batting practice using a roll-up type cage and a city boy named John Keith from Allentown, Pa. was catching. John wore number nine, Ted's old number. I happened to be standing beside him. Ted asked John, "Hey Keith, who used to wear number nine?" Keith, about 14 years old at the time, slowly removed his catcher's mask and replied, "I think it was Minnie Minoso." For those of you who don't know who Minnie Minoso was, he was also a major league player, but nowhere near the player Williams was. Williams found this funny, too, and broke a smile.

I told Fay Vincent, the former major league commissioner and currently the commissioner of the league I'm involved in now, this story. Mr. Vincent, some 30 years later, to my surprise tells me Minnie Minoso did wear number nine, but for another team.

Mr. Williams once asked me: "Why do you have to wait longer on a curve ball than you do on a fast ball?" His answer: "It travels a farther distance." The two best quotes about Teddy's ball game I've ever heard were: "John Wayne spent his whole life trying to play Ted Williams." The other was when Ted hit a home run his last at bat and wouldn't do a curtain call. One sports writer wrote, "God doesn't answer letters."

RETIRING OLD FLAGS

To the Editor:

Judith Grover Tent 17 Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War recently held a flag-burning ceremony at Sally Sawyer's with an impressive reading by the department president, Lesley Dean. These were flags removed from the cemetery when new ones were put out, and old faded and torn flags people had given us.

MILFOIL REMOVAL THANKS

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Community Lakes Association and all the people who know and love Lake Christopher, I wish to thank Jim Chandler for all that he did to get rid of the milfoil in our lake. From the time that it was discovered by his class from the Maine Conservation School on June 18 until today, July 17, he masterminded the plan that got the job done.

Jim White, who has a camp on the lake, with his wife, Marie, worked with Chandler on Monday from 9 a.m. until 7:30 p.m. They waited out the thunderstorm under Sylvia Hauzenblas' boathouse. The two of them started at 8 a.m. on 7/17/02; wearing a wet suit, Chandler pulled the heavy weeds and handed them to White who put them into garbage bags. By 5 p.m. they were sure they had found and pulled all of them. We will be checking the cove frequently to make sure.

We would also like to thank John McPhedran and Karen Hahnel from DEP, who made two trips to give their expert advice. Credit also goes to Karen Yarasitis and Jay Woolsey, who both helped out on Wednesday and Sylvia Hauzenblas for letting us use her land and boathouse.

This has indeed been a job well done. Appreciation is also given to Jim White for taking care of the loon nest on Lake Christopher.

Nancy Willard,
President, Community Lakes Association

BIKE RALLY THANKS

To the Editor:

On behalf of the over 300 participants of the Maine Bike Rally, the Bicycle Coalition of Maine and organizing committee and organizations, we would like to thank Bethel and particularly Gould Academy for hosting our most successful Rally yet. For the 14th annual Maine Bike Rally, we had nearly 30 rides ranging from three miles to 100 miles in length and even had Senator Susan Collins and Representative Tom Allen join us to celebrate the clean, healthy fun that bicycling offers all of us.

We've received rave reviews from the participants especially for the friendly community, idyllic scenery, and world-class bicycling of the region. Bethel has proven to be a Mecca for bicycling and bicycle tourism.

In thanks to the citizens of Bethel and Gould Academy, the Maine Bike Rally is donating four bicycle racks for the village and the campus. We also had a unanimous vote to return to Bethel for 2003, so we'll be back. Please mark your calendar for next July 11-13 and plan on joining us at the 15th anniversary of the Maine Bike Rally. Oh, and thanks to L.L. Bean, local residents in Bethel and area towns can participate for free. Be sure to check out our Web site, www.BikeMaine.org in the months ahead for details about next year and to see a photo album from this year's successful event.

I would also like to personally thank Nancy White and Rick Churchill for their leadership as the Rally co-chairs. Working with many other local committee members and the community, they have done an excellent job showing bicyclists all they have to offer. Again, our thanks to everyone for the hospitality.

Jeffrey Miller, executive director

EUROBIKES RETURN AUG. 3-4

To the Editor:

Starting off the month of August with a bang, the Western Maine European Motorcycle meet returns to Sunday River Ski Resort in Bethel, on Aug. 3 and 4. This event, in its third year now, draws European motorcycle enthusiasts from all over New England to enjoy the area's riding and to check out the other bikes that show up.

New this year will be the European Motorcycle Show on Sunday. This show will be a benefit for Maine Handicapped Skiing and will be judged by the spectators by putting money in their favorite bike's can. The bike with the most money in its class wins and Maine Handicapped Skiing gets the proceeds. Got an ugly bike but a lot of money? Buy the vote. It's going to a good cause. Everyone is encouraged to bring up their Triumphs, BSAs, BMWs, Nortons, Moto Guzzis or whatever and show them off.

Also, there will be a BBQ on Sunday at the Jordan Grand, and Dave Percival of Andover will once again be opening his collection of over 70 vintage BMWs to the public. This collection is one of the best in the country and features two bikes that were in the Guggenheim show. It's a don't-miss event.

The European motorcycle market has been growing in leaps and bounds over the last few years. With models like Ducati's 916/998 and Monster or Triumph's new Bonniville, there seems to be a little of everything for the person that wants a motorcycle that's a little different from the rest and has cutting edge performance, too. These motorcycles are capturing not only the interest of the people that grew up with names like Moto Guzzi, BMW, MuZ, Triumph, and Ducati, but a younger generation also.

So come up and see the bikes and meet the riders that choose to go in a little bit different direction than the norm. Dealers representing Triumph, Moto Guzzi, BMW, and MuZ will be displaying bikes and there should be lots to see. For more information go to sundayriver.com and hit the event calendar or call me at 836-2208. See you there.

MUSIC MAKERS THANKS, AND AN INVITATION

To the Editor:

The Mahosuc Music Makers Community Band would like to thank Lowell Saw Shop once again for the use of their trailer in the Mollycoddett Day Parade. And a great big thank you to Doug Webster and Precision Painting for pulling the band with his truck.

We invite the community to come to our remaining summer concerts on Sunday, July 28 at 4 p.m. and Monday, Aug. 19 at 7 p.m., both in the gazebo. And we're always looking for new members. Just dust off your instrument and come to band practice. We rehearse Monday nights at 7 p.m. in the West Parish Congregational Church basement. Everyone is welcome.

TELSTAR CAR SHOW THANKS

To the Editor:

Once again Friends of Telstar High School sponsored a Car Show on Mollycoddett Day. There were 72 entries and all 17 classes had representation. Local people as well as car enthusiasts from other parts of Maine and New Hampshire, with the farthest coming from New York, participated in the show. Spectators at the show were treated to view and appreciate some resorted or original classic cars, trucks and motorcycles.

This car show would not have been possible if not for the efforts of many different people and businesses. Businesses who sponsored the trophies were: Leon Costello Co., Oxford Networks, Cole's Custom Auto, Gaudreau's Repair, Mighty Good Wrench, Bethel Auto Sales, Art's Auto Sales, Heath's Auto, B & K Motors, Jeff Walker's Auto Repair, Kennison Auto Sales and Services, Bennett's Automotive, Race Basics, Pallet's Unlimited, James Knight Contractor and R.A. Douglass & Son. Door prizes were provided by Frost Motor Supply, VIP, Kelly Auto Supply, Wal-Mart, Marilyn Swan, Brenda Wight and Linda Howe.

Individuals and businesses who played a part in the show are as follows: Linda Howe, Bob Howe, Seth Howe, Jon Howe, Marilyn Swan, James Swan, Bion Swan, Hillary Kimball, Brenda Wight, Brad Wight, Theresa Estes, Eileen Broderick, Wendy Iseman, Grayson Wakefield, Bert Cole, Ken Cole, Bronson Cole, Jamie Cole, John Haines, Gina Douglass, Dusty Chapman, Andrew Wheeler, Alice Deegan, Cindy Savage, Nancy Gionet, Marjorie Osgood, Connie Rice, Aaron Bean, Joanne Crockett, Jim Lunney, Lauren Hart, John Reuter, Arlyn Hale, Darcie Miles, David Murphy, Senior Class members, Junior Class members, Telstar boys' baseball team, Telstar girls' basketball team, Western Maine Supply, Brooks Brothers and SAD44 Buildings and Grounds department. The collective and collaborative efforts of all individuals and businesses helped to make Telstar's second annual Car Show a success.

We look forward to seeing the community, businesses and Telstar Alumni supporting our local, public high school in all future endeavors.

MOLLYCOKETT DAY THANKS

To the Editor:

The Mahosuc Arts Council would like to acknowledge and thank all the individuals and businesses that contributed to making Mollycoddett Day a great day this year.

Angela Farnum did an excellent job presiding over the day's events as "Princess Mollycoddett." All of the entrants in this year's "America, the Beautiful" parade are to be commended for their efforts. Thanks to The Bethel Citizen for being the parade sponsor and to Seabury Lyon, Steve Wight and Kim Driscoll and her family for coordinating and judging it.

If people enjoyed the entertainment that took place all day long on the common, they may thank the folks at the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce, the Bethel Area Development Corp., the Bethel Inn and Country Club, Goodwin's Inc., Nickerson & O'Day, Inc., Oxford Networks, The Rotary Club of Bethel, and the Java House for their contributions. We received donations of thousands of feet of tinfoil for use by The Tin Foil Wizard from The Grand Summit Resort and Jordan Grand Resort hotels, the Sunday River Brew Pub, Chartwells Food Service, and The Sudbury Inn. The traditional fireworks display that caps off the day's events was made possible by Dick and Gretchen Rasor and Les and Chris Otten. Local businesses also support Mollycoddett Day by advertising in the annual Mollycoddett Day booklet printed by Inman Printing.

Special thanks for helping with our first-time-ever fried dough booth goes to Jim Largess and Sunday River Ski Resort, Reggie Brown and MainGas, Carl Parisi, George Lefebvre, Marvin Collins, Brad Jerome, Susan Duplessis, Bob Hinds Jr., Julie Hart, Christine Liberti, Jan Todd, Linda and Kelsey Gamble, Margaret Haberman, Scott Smith, Rebecca Zicarelli, Sean Cameron, Jan and Tricia LaPolla, Cindy Hiebert, Pam Laratt, and Wendy Penley.

Behind the scenes providing essential support were Blake MacKay, Marguerite Graham, Doug Alford, Pete Rackliffe, Tim Kavanagh, Jeff Sterling, Gould Academy's maintenance staff, D & E Sanitation, Doug Bennett & Son Septic Tank Cleaning Service, Olson's Tent Rentals, the Town of Bethel, and the Bethel Police Department.

We look forward to seeing you all on Mollycoddett Day, Saturday, July 19, 2003.

LETTER TITLE WAS NOT APPROPRIATE

To the Editor:

The letter I wrote to you last week was not to say put the blame on the landowners or to blame anyone. "Should have blamed landowners" was not an appropriate title for my letter to the editor. I stated landowners should be more responsible when putting up gates or any kind of barriers, always making sure that these barriers are clearly marked with bright colors and reflective materials.

I thought your reply to why you decided to put the article in at the same time as the picture of the memorial was still in very poor taste; let me guess, you don't have any children. You could have tried to use a little compassion and empathy, what you did to the Collins' family was downright rude and unforgivable. You should be ashamed of yourself and your narrow mindedness when writing articles; this is not what I would expect from any editor of any newspaper. With the attitude you have about not caring what your readers really think surprises me, and I'm amazed you still can sell your paper.

Has anyone ever heard the phrase, "Two heads are better than one"? As a newspaper you should definitely be working as a team to put together your layouts and getting other opinions, suggestions and ideas from your staff. Then maybe you wouldn't have your readers so upset in instances like the July 11, 2002 front page.

The Bethel Citizen is very good at twisting information at very inappropriate times. I have in the past strongly disagreed with many of the articles the paper has written, and I choose not to buy your paper, because I don't know if I believe much of what is in it. Also it usually prints the opinions of only the persons you choose to interview and not much for facts in any of the articles written.

I live on the old Rabbitt Road (now Rabbitt Lane) that runs from Vernon Street (Route 35) to Route 26. I see many ATVs, snow machines and jeeps most times the riders are OK. Sometimes there are a few that do abuse the privileges to use the road and trails. We've had quite a few snow machines leave the trail and sled down the road at high rates of speed. Jeeps go by our house at right rates of speed, but the local law enforcement says they can travel up to 45 miles per hour, because the road is open to the public. There was one incident when a jeep backed up and tried to run over our dog and our 7-year-old son, when he went to call our dog back. ATVs use the trails and most are OK when going by our home and just like the rest of the off road vehicles there are some that go at high rates of speed. But if you stop and think about it there are always a few in the bunch who spoil it for most everyone else.

Also, how many people died in snow machine accidents this year? I believe if you check your sources you will find more people are killed on snow machines than ATVs especially since you can ride ATVs year round. I would also be interested to see how many accidents are the results of persons hitting gates or barriers not clearly marked. Again why should ATVs have to register, if the trails are closed to them and where does this money go? Maybe you could write an article about this and what the state intends to do about the rights of ATV riders. Last time I knew jeeps made much bigger ruts than any ATV I am familiar with.

In closing I hope when people talk about parenting issues that they are parents themselves, if they are not they don't have a clue what being a parent is all about.

Watch for the speed bumps

WOODSTOCK—Speed bumps have again been placed on Lakeshore Drive, near the town swimming beach. They were put down on the recommendation of the selectmen and Recreation Committee, said Vern Maxfield, town manager. The bumps were first put in for the summer season several years ago, but not last year, he said. Tom O'Rourke, who lives near the beach, said some drivers have been angry about the use of the speed bumps this summer. But, he said, "These measures have been taken to protect the children."

Reward offered for mower theft arrest

WEST PARIS—A DR brush mower was stolen from in front of J&K Sporting Goods, just south of Trap Corner, Saturday afternoon. Co-owner Kevin Billings is offering a $500 reward for the arrest of the thieves and the return of the mower, and another $500 if someone is convicted of the crime, he said. Billings said an alarm system went off at 12:40 p.m., and the Sheriff's Department was on the scene 11 minutes later, but the thieves had left. He said lifting the mower requires three or four people, and a truck would likely be needed to haul it away. Anyone with information is asked to call the Sheriff's Office at 743-9554.

Comp plan inventory/analysis done

GREENWOOD—The inventory and analysis portion of the Greenwood Comprehensive Plan has been completed. The committee will hold an informational meeting open to taxpayers July 29 at 7 p.m. at the Town Hall. The completed work will be reviewed.

Maine Forest Rally this weekend

RUMFORD—The 2002 Maine Forest Rally will take place Friday and Saturday in the Rumford vicinity, on gravel roads owned by MeadWestvaco Paper Co., International Paper Co. and Seven Islands Land Co. For more information see the rally Web page at maineforestrally.com

King to hold benefit reading

LOVELL—Author Stephen King will hold a reading Sunday at the Lovell Athletic Fields as part of a benefit for the Charlotte Hobbs Memorial Library's expansion. King will read for about 45 minutes from his works, and then hold a half hour question and answer period. A short book-signing session will follow. Seating under a tent is limited to 300 people, at $15 a ticket (available at the library or the Bridgton Books store on Main Street, Bridgton). Anyone who wishes to bring a blanket for seating may pay $5 at the gate.

Train hit by vandals

MOOSEHEAD JUNCTION TOWNSHIP—A month after its inaugural run, a luxury passenger train that operates in the Greenville area has been targeted by vandals. Greenville police were notified Thursday that BBs or pellets had been discharged into at least three large side windows of the Acadian Railway train. In addition, someone tried to break into the train's kitchen car Thursday evening or early Friday morning. No damage estimate was immediately available. Police believe the damage to the windows was done locally, because a railroad employee who was in the train reported hearing the impact. The excursion train, which makes two overnight trips a week to the region, has been pumping money into the local economy, and residents expressed chagrin that some people appear bent on disrupting the summer-only service. "They'd (the vandals) better think about what they are doing to the area and to themselves," said Carol Harris, who owns three businesses in Greenville. The rail operation, which had been in the planning stage for three years, uses refurbished Victorian-era cars to carry passengers on trips between Montreal and Saint John, New Brunswick, with two-day stopovers in Greenville. Michelle Pelletier, grounds operation manager for the Greenville office of Acadian Railways, said Friday that she hopes police find the responsible parties and that they are ordered to pay for the damage. Pelletier said the specialized glass for the windows in the train is "extremely expensive." The damage also caused a delay in the train's schedule, she said. Greenville is the only place the train stops in an unsecured yard, according to company officials.

Hikers' cars burglarized

TOWNSHIP 6 NORTH OF WELD—Thieves broke into locked cars owned by eight campers hiking trails on Tumbledown Mountain Saturday night. They broke windows with rocks and stole about $200 worth of items, according to a Franklin County sheriff's deputy. The break-ins took place in parking areas off the Byron Road, connecting routes 142 and 17. Police were looking for a group of teenagers believed to be from the Rumford area. State police are also investigating camp break-ins in Byron believed to be connected to the car burglaries.

Climb to the Clouds discontinued

PINKHAM NOTCH, N.H.—The Mt. Washington Hillclimb auto race, also known as the "Climb to the Clouds," has once again been taken off the schedule of events held at the historic Mt. Washington Auto Road. The event is a timed auto race up the Mt. Washington Auto Road to the summit of 6,288-foot Mt. Washington. The announcement to discontinue the event was made by Mt. Washington Auto Road General Manager Howie Wemyss following many months of discussion within the company. "This is a very tough announcement for us because we feel so strongly about the event, but ultimately it comes down to making a business decision," he said. "History is very important to us, so we do not take this decision lightly — and all of the drivers, car clubs, volunteers, and fans of the event are affected by this decision. We really enjoy holding this event, but the race is very expensive and labor-intensive for the Auto Road, even with the help of sponsorship and volunteers. At a time when the company is moving forward with the rebuilding of a new lodge for the Mt. Washington Auto Road and our partner company Great Glen Trails Outdoor Center, we are taking a look at how we do everything. We just couldn't justify the expense and effort it takes to run this event and maintain a quality level we are proud of." First run in 1904 and recognized as America's oldest motorsports event, the "Climb to the Clouds" pre-dates the Indianapolis 500, first held in 1911 and the inaugural Pikes Peak Hillclimb of 1916. The race was held on and off through 1961 and then took a 29-year hiatus. The race was originally created by early auto manufacturers to showcase their new inventions. The Mt. Washington Auto Road was considered to be the ultimate site to prove the ability of these now historic vehicles. Plans for a 100-year anniversary commemorative event for 2004 are being developed. "We envision several days, maybe a week of events. We won't hold a race, but would focus on its history and the vehicles that made the race so compelling," Wemyss said.

Citizens appointed to casino panel

AUGUSTA—Two Maine residents with opposing views on casino development will serve on an 18-member task force established by the Legislature to study the economic and social impact of a casino. Jim Carson of South Portland will represent the view of a resident who favors a casino in Maine, while the Rev. Richard Balkite of York will serve as a member of the public opposed to a casino. The panel was established after the Passamaquoddy and Penobscot tribes said they would ask lawmakers in 2003 to legalize casino gambling. The tribes are interested in building a $4 million to $6 million casino and luxury resort in southern Maine, near the Maine Turnpike. The Passamaquoddy Tribe is also interested in building a smaller casino in the Calais area. The task force includes representatives of the chief of the Maine State Police, attorney general, Maine Association of Independent Neighborhoods, Maine Chamber of Commerce, Maine Tourism Association, Office of Substance Abuse and the executive director of the Maine Harness Racing Association.

From the Bethel Police Log:

Wednesday, July 17

At 6:35 p.m. police received a report of a trailer truck traveling erratically on Route 2 from Rumford, at a high rate of speed. Police intercepted the truck and gave the driver summonses for speed (67 in a 55 mph zone) and for having no license plate.

Thursday, July 18

At 10:50 a.m. an unknown truck driver advised the vehicle in front of him was operating possibly OUI. The driver was reportedly riding the brakes and hugging the fog line. Police stopped the vehicle and noted the occupants to be an elderly couple, unsure of their location and having difficulty driving in the fog.

Monday, July 22

At 4:30 p.m. a subject reported a green Ford Escort had tried to intentionally run her off the road on the Intervale Road.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log. It lists all cases of adults being arrested or issued a criminal summons, but does not include all reports of other police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies.

Easement

could lead to complications if the district needed to access it in the future, would expose the line to ice flows from the nearby Androscoggin River, and would make it more difficult to maintain the mandatory 10-foot separation from the sewer line (which is to run inside the water line, approximately under the white line on the edge of the paved road surface).

There was no discussion at the meeting of the possible use of eminent domain.

Rosberg said Tuesday he was pleased with the arrangement that was finally worked out.

"Bob was very cordial. He said he didn't want to hold the project up," Rosberg said. He also said Chadbourne will receive no further entitlements to either the sewer or water line as a result of the agreement.

Rosberg also said the district had built the cost of easement acquisition into the project budget, and even with the cost of the Chadbourne easement, "We will still come in well under budget."

Chadbourne said Wednesday he had no specific plans for the sewer line included as part of the easement agreement, but it would provide an option in the future if someone should decide to develop land he owns between Telstar and Locke Mills.

Most line in public easement

For most of the almost 7,000 feet covered by the sewer and water project, the lines will run through a public utilities easement along Route 26 — thus no further private easements are required.

In the area of the Alder Brook bridge, however, engineers wanted to route the lines for a short distance outside the public easement — primarily in order to avoid the possibility (and cost) of having to move them in the future if the state should decide to rebuild the bridge.

And since in this case the rerouting has the effect of cutting inside of a curve in the present road, the net result will be a straighter, shorter line.

Outhouses

camp on the Sunday River in Riley, built his just 20 years ago.

"It's beautifully overbuilt," he said, constructed with 2x6 lumber, presumably to live on through the 21st century.

There are also examples of privies in places besides summer camps. At the Franklin Grange in Bryant Pond, for example, a two-story privy is still used at Grange meetings.

In Andover, Beverly Swan of the local Historical Society said she knows of several backhouses in town that are still usable, if not often used.

Second acts

And despite what a cosmopolitan like F. Scott Fitzgerald might have thought, some have found there are second acts in American lives, at least out in the country.

Many outhouses have been converted to storage sheds, for such things as fishing or waterskiing equipment, or lawn tools.

Others provide rainy day shelter for folks who practice a once indoor practice that has now moved increasingly outdoors — smoking.

Still others boast unusual conversions. In Waterford, Peter Lawton converted his three-holer, located in an attached barn, to a chicken coop. Paneled walls and what appear to be custom-tailored seats in the privy have been preserved, with the coop built around them.

The "elegant" design of the privy, believes Lawton, provides an ambience conducive to good egg production. And in case of another ice storm, "We can quickly join the chickens," he said.

In Upton, a former privy on Lake Umbagog is now a "potting" shed, with a play on the original use.

And in Greenwood, one old outhouse houses yet another relic of the family's pre-plumbing days — a no-longer used Scandinavian high-tech composting toilet that didn't.

Given all these examples that outhouses are still helping us do our sundry things, what prompted the conclusion they are on their way to extinction?

The answer may lie in the fact that the report was based on a question in the 2000 U.S. census regarding plumbing in year-round homes.

According to the census, the number of those homes in Maine

"I'll tell you about a technical point that was put to me the other day. The question was this: 'What is the life, or how long will the average mail order catalog last, in just the plain, ordinary eight family three holer?'" comfortable on one seat of the two-holer facility, the canine jumped up on the other one — and disappeared, much to his mistress' horror. The dog fell about four feet.

CHIC SALE
'The Specialist,' 1929

"Someone got a fire poker with a crook in it, and got him out by hooking it on his collar," recalled Howe.

A longtime Newry resident recalls that before using her outhouse, family members had to knock loudly on the door several times before entering — to scare away the resident snake.

Sylvia Gray of Newry grew up with outhouses. A favorite childhood prank, she said, was to wait until her father was in it, "and then pelt it with apples. You could hear him holler inside."

In more recent memory, Hardy recalls a woman guest from California at her Concord Pond camp. The woman visited on two successive afternoons for about seven hours each, said Hardy, "but she never used the outhouse. She held it both days."

For those interested in outhouse reading material — literal or otherwise — Howe recommends the humorous "The Specialist," written by Chic Sale in 1929. It is a portrayal of a carpenter who specialized in outhouse construction.

An excerpt: "I'll tell you about a technical point that was put to me the other day. The question was this: 'What is the life, or how long will the average mail order catalog last, in just the plain, ordinary eight family three holer?'"

"It stumped me for a spell; but this bein' a reasonable question I checked up, and found that by placin' the catalogue in there, say in January — when you get your new one — you should be into the harness section by June; but, of course, that ain't through apple time, and not countin' on too many city visitors, either."

expanding, too, adding 30 new campsites this summer.

At Sunday River, the number of RCI timeshare guests has been comparable to recent years, according to spokesman Susan Duplessis. Those coming, "seem to be spending more while they're here," she said, at least in mountain restaurants.

She also said the number of groups visiting the resort's Mountain Park has doubled this year. Season pass sales for mountain biking have also doubled, she said.

Alan Thrall, owner of the Rostay Inn in Bethel, described his overall business as somewhat off, attributing it to the economy. For him, the Canadian traffic has been down.

sity of services. While she has seen fewer in-town visitors this season, her decorating business is flourishing in area condominiums, she said. Her wedding business has also been good, she said.

Business has picked up recently at the Bistro L'Auberge inn and restaurant near the Bethel common. Lodging bookings look good for the next month with National Training Laboratory people, said owner Adam Adler. And, he said, "The restaurant is doing quite well."

The recent Maine Bike Rally brought new people to town, and this weekend's Maine Forest Rally is expected to do the same.

But, he said, the Fourth of July was his best ever, and with the Maine Forest Rally coming up, he's full for this weekend. (See Briefly, page 3, for more on the rally.)

Summer rentals through Wild River Realty have been all right, but not great, said Bob Laux. The real estate portion of his business has also been "OK," he said, but some buyers appear to be diverting their investments from the stock market to real estate. Looking to the future, Laux said he is already getting some good inquiries about winter rentals.

At The Bethel Citizen, advertising this summer is described as somewhat down by publisher Edward Snook, a trend consistent with national patterns, he said. But it has picked up in the past two weeks.

Other Bethel businesses have also reported less-than-hoped-for numbers overall, but they have had their bright spots as well.

Jim Mann of Mt. Mann Jewelers in Bethel acknowledges that as someone in the luxury business, he's not surprised sales in higher-priced items are slow this summer.

But lower-end items are selling well, he said, and he's geared his offerings toward that. A tent sale held two weeks ago was very successful, he said.

Janet Black, of Designs, an interior decorating and floral designs shop, has profited from her diversity of services. While she has seen fewer in-town visitors this season, her decorating business is flourishing in area condominiums, she said. Her wedding business has also been good, she said.

Albany

developed in dialogue with all those residents. This seemed like a wonderful model for us."

The trustworthy fox

Some were cautious about working with LURC after their experiences during the bingo hall permitting.

Peter Klein said, "To go back to LURC is like inviting the fox to come guard the chicken coop."

Michaela Casey recalled how LURC officials listened carefully to testimony of how the bingo hall would destroy the character of Albany.

But, she said, when it came time for LURC to make a decision, that testimony hadn't made a difference. "The idea of involving LURC is a good idea if LURC is trustworthy," Casey said.

But Strauss countered, reading from a draft petition he'd prepared but didn't present for signatures. "We agree that the heritage and character are too important to squander through inappropriate development — those are not my words. Those are LURC's words, from the Rangeley plan."

State Rep. Arlan Jodrey (R. Bethel) said he had worked on the Rangeley plan, and felt it was a good model for Albany residents to consider.

"It was a pilot project," Jodrey said. "It was a five-year experiment. But there are snags. Developers are already challenging it."

Jodrey expressed concern about the focus on preventing a gaming facility and the attitudes expressed about LURC.

"Talk of LURC and distrust bothers me," Jodrey said, "it's getting off on the wrong footing. They have a large jurisdiction, over half the acreage in the State of Maine. They do a good job."

Jodrey recommended that any plan be broad based and not target a single industry or group. He said that eventually any plan would have to be approved by the Legislature, and it would need to be broad based to receive approval there.

Finding a voice

Gene Tanguay, president of the Albany Improvement Association, agreed that the attempt to work with LURC shouldn't be undercut by the bingo-hall history.

"The whole idea is to give us a voice," Tanguay said. "Right now, if somebody fills out every spot on a LURC building permit, they're most likely going to get the permit. We're never going to know about it until the building starts going up."

"It's the definition of community," Tanguay said. "Right now, Maine is the community, not Albany."

Tanguay would like residents to define what he called "Albany's signature."

"How do we keep the town's character and protect neighbors' property? I see the ads in The Bethel Citizen 'and enjoy the low Albany taxes.' The character of a town can change real easy with a real estate transaction. The only way land-use works is compromise. Right now, our due process is a court system, which is reactionary and expensive. This can be the lawless community that got rules."

Draft plan for next meeting

A portion of the Rangeley plan allows for approval by residents before a variance to the regulations could be granted. This intrigued the Albany citizens, since the bingo hall was approved as a variance to LURC regulation.

Limits in the Rangeley regulations on square footage for structures also drew interest.

After much debate, the residents and landowners decided to research the existing LURC regulations, the Rangeley plan, and other land-use regulations. They agreed that they would be best off to clearly define the wishes of the community before approaching LURC, given the staff shortages the agency faces at this time.

A committee will be formed to develop a draft plan as a basis for discussion. Albany residents and landowners will meet again on Aug. 18, at 6:30 p.m. at the Albany Town Hall to continue the discussion.

"If it turns out through these meetings that there is no agreement," Strauss said, "it would just die."

But for many of the residents there, the hope of a small measure of self-determination seemed to offer comfort for the future.

"We would know what's going on instead of just LURC," Kathy Bennett said. "We would be informed."

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Sharon Bouchard's column is published by special arrangement with the Advertising Department of this newspaper.

I've always thought that bumper stickers were wonderful things. They provide us with on-the-road entertainment and also give us a little insight into the person in the car in front of us.

Take the person driving a dinged up older model Subaru for example. They may be sporting a bumper sticker that says, "My other car is a Mercedes." This is a person who is feeling just a little insecure about their financial lot in life, but they have a sense of humor about it.

Then there is the guy (excuse me, it could be a gal) who has a slightly dinged-up older model Ford LTD with fuzzy dice hanging from the rearview mirror and a bumper sticker that says, "You toucha my car, I breaka your face." This person also suffers from some insecurity, but they really don't have much of a sense of humor about anything.

There are a whole lot of cutesie stickers like the "I heart anything." You know the ones with a picture of a heart instead of the word love and whatever it is that they heart. They are all over the place. "I heart my Saint Bernard." I'm sure they do heart their Saint Bernard; it's not the kind of dog you have unless you do heart it. I know, I used to have one and I certainly did heart it.

Sometimes I find the proclamation of heart a little hard to believe such as "I heart New York." I'm sure that New York is a great city to visit, but I can't imagine that anyone actually hearts it. Even the New York Times doesn't heart it considering that they are always writing about all the faults they find.

Some bumper stickers reveal a socially conscious owner, like the person with the yellow VW micro-bus and the Grateful dead mural on the side and the sticker "Split wood not atoms." And of course, for every social position held by one person there is another with an opposing position and a bumper sticker to say so. Like the person with a gas guzzling big black Buick who's bumper sticker says "Split people in yellow VW micro-buses who split wood."

Some people like to joke about the way they drive. "If you don't like my driving, stay off the sidewalk." Some people would rather let you know how you drive, like the person with the bumper sticker, "If you can read this bumper sticker, you are too close to my car."

Bumper stickers are a way of letting people know what your hobby is — "I'd rather be sailing," "I'd rather be golfing" and the very popular "I'd rather be playing bingo." I think it's nice for people to rather be doing something other than what they have to do.

Some folks let you know that they did do what they rather, "This old geyser saw Old Faithful," "I got racy at New Hampshire International Speedway," "This car went through Sequoia National Park" or "This car climb Mt. Washington." My own personal favorite is one I saw on a small car that looked like it had seen its better days. That bumper sticker said, "This car never climbed anything."

I sometimes wonder what famous people have for bumper stickers. Bill Gates probably has one on the bumper of his Mercedes that says, "My other car is a Lear jet." The President might have one on the bumper of the Presidential limo that says "Bar-B-Que Diplomacy starts in Texas," or maybe something like "Nuclear is pronounced whatever way I say it is." Saddam Hussein would have one on the back of his tank that says, "I heart power." And the president of CMP probably also has one his Cadillac that says, "I heart power."

I wonder if they have bumper stickers in other countries. If they do, I don't think they would be that much different from our own. There might be a slight change in the wording, like someone in Russia might have one on his or her Lada that says, "Don't laugh, at least I have a car."

In Sicily we might find one on the back of a black Cadillac that says, "You toucha my car, I have Guido killa you." Someone in England might have "I'd rather be playing polo," and in France we would find "My other car is a bicycle." In Japan the bumper of a Lexus would have "I heart the USA," and a Sherpa in Nepal could have "This ox cart has climbed the Himalayas."

Some bumper stickers represent the car owner's vocation such as "Firefighters are always in heat," "Electricians light up your life," "Gardeners do it in the dirt," and one that is very near and dear to me, "Columnists are made of the write stuff."

I really do like bumper stickers, though my own bumpers are naked of any. I just never wanted to reveal that much of myself. If I did have a bumper sticker, I think I would have one that just says, "That's the way I see it."

MOLLYCKETT DAY COMPETITION RESULTS

The 20th annual Western Oxford County Frog Jumping Contest on Mollyckett Day was another great success. Fifty frogs and kids vied for the prize money.

Christina Morin's frog took first place with a distance of 131 1/2 inches. Second and third places went to Morgan Sweetser and Forrest Todd, whose frogs jumped 109 inches and 103 1/2 inches. A prize for the shortest distance, 22 inches, was awarded to Buddy and Hunter Williamson.

"America, the Beautiful" parade trophy winners for Best Theme: first, Overland Jeeps of Maine; second, Bethel Family Dentistry; and third, Bailey's Body Works.

The sixth annual Old Time Fiddlers Contest results: Jay Smith, first place, junior; senior category, first, Bill Scott, second, Jim Roy, third, Dick Haines; open category, first, Jaige Trudel, second, Edward Howe, third, Colleen Perry.

out worrying about eardrums. That was nice. Had we known, that would, or should I say wouldn't have happened, Lynn could have brought Addie, whom we left home in the house. Next year is another year.

I also got to see friends on the common. Kathie, Kevin and Annaliese were there and we visited for a while. Mia was off with friends and I didn't get to see her. Some other time, no doubt, I will be able to see her.

I appreciate the response I got to my last column. It seems people are reading it and tend to agree with me on lack of responsibility, etc. Thanks for the feedback.

Have been swimming in the river a lot, lately. It has inspired Tasha to jump in the car when asked to get in. She has been suffering the heat as much as the rest of us and there's nothing like a quick dip in the Sunday River to cool off the body and mind. She and David and I have been several times in recent days. Friend Marty accompanied us yesterday, but declined to jump in the river. We couldn't even get him to put his feet in. That alone can cool one down for hours.

Thursday, the 25th, is Bethel Area Poets Society reading, again. Hope to see all there with poems in hand. Faith and Phil at the Black Bear B&B have been kind enough to give us the space. Let's all get there and enjoy it.

That is all for this week. I am tempting fate too much to think the computer will continue. Have a good week and take care in this heat.

The Hanover Selectboard met early Thursday evening following a meeting with D.A. Wilson Company at Brown Road where it was decided to add more materials to the road surface. During the meeting the board was advised about late taxes. There were about $10,000 less late taxes than the year before, and since the books closed at the end of June, some of the late taxes have been collected. The board decided where on the town office site the granite rock and commemorative plaque will be placed. The board also reported that they are seeing estimates from contractors to upgrade the South Shore Road to be open all year.

The grand secretary's office for the Grand Lodge Knights of Pythias of Maine has moved to Hanover for at least an interim period. Previously located in Auburn, the office is now at Baby Brook Lane in Hanover. The move took place on Saturday, with the assistance of Lawrence and Pat Young from Hancock. Appreciation has been expressed to Faye Farrington of Auburn for her assistance. Mail for the organization should be directed to PO Box 39, Hanover, ME 04237.

Living in Texas at the time of his death. My sympathy to his family.

Some things that bother me. Why in the name of time would an 83-year-old man climb up on the roof of his garage and try to repair said roof without saying a word to anyone? Buster Falkenham, thankfully, received no major injuries after his fall off his leaky roof; his trip to hospital by the evac helicopter, and scaring the people who love him half to death. Ever heard of the word "help" Buster?

Why would anybody steal the directions to Mollyckett's grave from the fence of Woodlawn Cemetery? The sign wasn't even up 24 hours when it mysteriously disappeared. Thank heavens we ordered two. The road commissioner says the second one will be so securely placed that you will have to steal the whole cemetery in order to their cell phone reception, as we will get the cell tower. I can't say I am thrilled with the idea.

Alder River Grange will have a supper on July 27 at 5 p.m. The menu is cold cuts, baked beans, casseroles, salads and desserts. Adults, $5 and under 13, $3.

Have a nice week. God Bless America.

Dot Canwell, Althea Fish and Alice Hoyt, executive committee, Pat Breame, Elsie Haynes and Helvi Cary; pianist, Louise Roberts. State officers present were Millie Parsons, Dave and Jeannie Burnham, Connie Tuttle and past state officers, Linda and Wayne Sherman. The Grange will help the Legion put on a blood drive in August. There is a planning meeting July 29 at 1 p.m. at the Legion Hall. Program was as follows: opening thought, Bertha DeHaas; opening song by all; Louise Roberts played the piano and Bertha sang two songs; Lucille Robbins, a reading, "When I am Old and Wear Purple"; Dot Canwell whistled a couple songs; Gloria and Gordon Abbott had a skit; Althea Fish played a couple piano solos with everyone singing on the last one; readings, "America's Daughters" by Alice Hoyt; Laura Hutchins played a couple tunes on the accordion; Bertha DeHaas read a poem Lettie Brooks wrote years ago; guessing game on animals; mystery march; closing song, "Happy Trails to You." The next meeting will be Aug. 5 and is Men's Night.

Services at the Baptist Church are Wednesday nights, Patch the Pirate Club and prayer meeting at 6:30 p.m.; Sunday services are Sunday School and Adult Bible Study at 9:15 a.m., morning worship at 10:30 a.m., choir practice at 5 p.m. and evening service at 6 p.m. Every Friday evening is Family Fun Night for the whole family. Shoot baskets, play ping-pong, volleyball, etc. from 6 to 8 p.m. Vacation Bible School is Aug. 12 to 16.

At the Pinhook Hymn Sing on July 26 the whole "Cole" family band will perform. The Pinhook Hymn Sing is held at the Pinhook Meeting House on Route 232 at 7 p.m.

At the July meeting of the Historical Society members decided to hold a History Day Open House on Aug. 10 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Refreshments will be served and tours of the museum will be given. The annual picnic will follow at 5 p.m. at the museum building. At the meeting, society members admired the painting job of Clay

Howe. Olive Risko gave a research report on Paul Q. Brooks, who wrote several books. Secretary Kathleen Bean supplied a video on Madagascar for the program. Earlier in the day, Olive Risko and Paul Billings watched the museum and had about 10 people visit. Richard Fraser and Basil Sequin donated exhibits. Signs for the museum will be lettered by Mary Billings. The society appeals to visitors and residents alike. They have had compliments about the museum from people who live in big cities like New York and Boston.

Curator Larry Billings has given the Historical Society a rare tin. He has also given a book to the research library. The society has fine collections and a newly painted museum facility. It is a credit to the community and the area. You may visit Saturday afternoons this summer and talk to attending society members. Two books by the late Ruby Emery are for sale along with other society products. Leave a donation if you wish to further the work.

Oscar Annis paid Richard a visit one afternoon recently. Richard worked for Oscar several years ago for MDOT in Bethel. Also, Jeff Littlehale stopped by for a while and they all had a nice visit together.

Tri-Town Ambulance is having a sale at the Union Church, South Woodstock at Andrews Corner Aug. 10 and 11. They would appreciate donations for this good cause.

Merle and Elizabeth Blazier spent some time at their camp during the summer. Merle is putting some new siding on the camp. Brad and Kellie Record are staying at their camp at the coast and visiting Carol and Neal Hall in Phippsburg, who are close by.

Milton and Eleanor Inman had company this week, Nancy Chapellier from Woodland Hills, Calif. and also her mother Armanda from Baldwinville, N.Y.

Ann Payne has been down to see her aunt, Colista, at South Paris. She is so good to go see her often.

Aug. 4 is Colista Morgan's birthday, so if anyone would like to send her a card, it would please her. The address is 3 Market Square Health Care Center, South Paris, ME 04281. She will be celebrating her 94th birthday.

They have been working on the Greenwood Road this week. It will be good when it gets done.

Albert and Roberta and two sons, William and Albert, have been on vacation. They went to Natilous Point and went different places from there to go fishing. They had a good trip. When they got back, they gave me some trout. I had not had any for a long time and enjoyed them for my lunch.

William and young Albert came up to see me one day.

Albert and Marie Curtis and I went up to Cathedral Pines at Eustis on Friday. We met up with Glenn and Lillian Strait of Pownal and Colista and Stephen Cogswell of Freeport.

Then on Sunday, we had our Wyman family reunion, which is on my father's side. That is where our family came from. We had our reunion with about 35 there. They were from Florida, Vermont, Freeport, Pownal, Farmington, Kingsbury, Corrina, Biddeford, Garland, Portland, Brunswick, Stratton and Greenwood. We had our meeting and voted the same officers; Colista Cogswell of Freeport, president; Tommy Wyman of Biddeford, vice president; Lillian Strait, secretary and treasurer. We had a small auction and drew for a door prize, which was won by Raymond Heikinen. A picnic lunch was had at noon. My daughter, Lillian, presented me a coat of arms of the Wyman family she had handmade over in Ireland, all in a nice frame. It was a very nice gift.

Until next time, everyone have a good week.

Durwood Buck has recently had visitors from Grandbury, Texas, Keith and Ellen Buck and children, Levi and Megan. They were here visiting relatives in the area.

Lee Farrar is back home after a week at Maine Med. He appreciates having visitors.

There were 18 Historical Society members who met at the Glines/Ring cottage on North Pond on Monday evening. The rain held off just at the right time so some could cook at the grill and some could eat at the picnic bench. More plans were made for the upcoming Yard Sale at the society building on Saturday, Aug. 3 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. There will also be home-baked food for sale.

The library is also having a Book Sale and Bake Sale on the same day. Come on out and visit both events.

We were pleasantly entertained by a female duck and her baby. They were very inquisitive and kept coming toward us, coming a little closer each time until the mother called and they hustled to the water. That was native entertainment.

Much sympathy is extended to the families of Priscilla Brett upon her death. Also sympathy goes to Myron Pierce, a former North Paris resident, upon the death of his wife.

Last Monday evening, Vern and I went with Phyllis Young to the "Little House" of Kay Lawson in Buckfield. We enjoyed a delicious meal in the company of Norma Colby, Jeanette O'Neil, Martha Dunn, Babe Hanson, Ben Grover, Jim and Dottie Brown and the hostess.

Vicky and Caroline Sanborn visited Ginny and Bill Aridas and at camp on Friday and Saturday.

Beverly and Vince Stevens and Georgine Thayer camped at Wilson's Mills last week, visiting Roger and Beverley Thayer. Vince tried his skill at kayaking, going out three consecutive days.

West Paris

by Bertha DeHaas

This week I wish to do something a little bit different in my "News and Notes." I would like to honor Dot and Lee Farrar of West Paris. Lee has been fighting a mysterious condition that has been destroying his lungs for the past three years and Dotty has been faithfully helping him every step of the way.

Even this year, they sold beautiful plants and flowers from their greenhouse. Not only that, they have a very unique and thriving vegetable garden and several beautiful flower gardens. Lee started all sorts of things from seed including tomatoes, peppers, broccoli, cauliflower, onions, cukes, cabbage, squash, pumpkins, petunias, pansies, salvia, asters, zinnias and lilies, all this done from his wheelchair. Then he and Dot transplanted them as growth warranted it. Finally, Lee put them in plant pots, pails and planters and Dotty arranged them in proper order of size and shape and has kept them fed and watered according to need. You do not need lots of acreage to have a productive garden. A small, cleared space with lots of sunshine, proper amounts of plant food and water will do very nicely. Even in the face of severe adversity, Dot and Lee have kept a positive attitude and proved what can be done if you don't quit, but persevere.

Dot and Lee have been my next-door neighbors for about 56 years and I feel fortunate that they are such good neighbors. They have been there for me when the going has been rough, through both good times and bad. Our children and grandchildren have played together over the years and they, too, think the world of "Aunt Dotty" and "Uncle Lee," as they call them. They owned and operated "Lee's Lawn & Garden Store" for many years.

Thank you, Dotty and Lee, for being you and all the wonderful times we've had together and all the good things you have done over the years, not just with and for us, but the whole community. This is my tribute to you.

Wednesday, July 17, West Paris Baptist Church met at 7 p.m. following choir practice for their quarterly meeting. It was voted to have a memorial plaque made with all the names of people special seat

Troop 1113, Junior Girl Scouts, will be holding a family stream-side camping weekend July 27 and 28. The troop has planned a campfire ceremony from 7 to 9 p.m. on Saturday night and has invited other local Girl Scout troops to participate in this special event.

The Daily Vacation Bible School with the West Paris Baptist, West Paris Mission Congregational Church, North Paris Federated Church and other area churches will be held July 29 through Aug. 2 from 9 to 11:30 a.m. daily at both the Baptist and Congregational Churches on Church Street, West Paris, ages kindergarten through sixth grade.

West Paris Senior Citizens will meet at noon, Tuesday, Aug. 6 at the home of Mrs. Bertha DeHaas for a cookout and meeting. If it storms, our cookout will become a cook-in.

Oxford Pomona Grange will meet at West Paris Grange, 4 Church Street, at 6:30 p.m., Tuesday, Aug. 6 for their monthly supper and meeting.

Supper on Aug. 22. We do need people to help on these suppers, and if you would like to volunteer to help, donate, cook, do dishes or clean up, we sure would appreciate it.

Also, have you got your ticket for the Pig Roast dinner on July 27 at 12 noon at the Stoneham Fire Station put on by the Knight Riders Snowmobile Club? This was good last year and they will have one every year from now on.

On Friday, July 26, the great World's Fair starts at North Waterford. Gates open at 8 a.m. and at 12 noon the exhibition hall opens and senior lunch will be served at noon at the dance hall. The Felt's Band will be playing there. I just love their toe-tapping music, don't you?

Albert has been selling a lot of wood the last couple of weeks to people for their fireplaces and campfires, etc.

Church services are being held for the month of July at North Waterford Church from 10 to 11 a.m. See you there.

Vickie Pike was in town this past week taking her Avon products orders.

Strawberry picking is all done up to Barton's. We sure have enjoyed them this year.

little girl tumbled head over heels from her bike, ending up breaking her arm. So, of course, like the responsible parents we are, we kept her home this week.

We did, however, make it to a Christian Motorcyclist Rally over the weekend in Durham at the Shiloh Chapel with Carlton and Pam Rugg. It was really something. Most of the rally-goers were hardcore motorcyclists, replete with leather chaps, vests, jackets, hats, tattoos, faces that looked like they'd seen the road a few times — you name it (well, maybe you shouldn't). But, underneath these rough exteriors were very gentle, giving people who had given their hearts to Christ and joined this road ministry to help bring the Word to others. We were very moved not only by those members, but by the evangelist, Rick Sheffy, and his wife, who both told it like it was. It made for a very emotional weekend as well, but one which we are all glad we attended and are all the better for having attended.

There will be a supper this Thursday at the Albany Congregational Church beginning at 5:30 p.m. Bring your appetites, as there will be plenty of food to fill your bellies. There will also be a Yard/Bake Sale over at the Hall next door. We hope to see you all there to fill your bellies with good food and your souls with good fellowship.

The kids will continue meeting on Wednesdays at 6 p.m. to rehearse songs. Last week's rehearsal was very good. Sheila was very pleased with all the enthusiasm and spirit that was shown, and we all hope it will continue that way.

This Friday is hymn sing over at the Pinhook Meetinghouse in Woodstock. We know that many members of the Albany Congregational Church will be in attendance. As usual, Sunday School begins at 9 a.m., with services following at 9:30. We haven't been to services in our own church for a couple of weeks now.

We understand that Jonathan Sabbin just celebrated his 13th birthday this past week. Dyana-Marie Dyke will be celebrating her 13th birthday on Sunday.

On Sunday evening, Aug. 18, Diane Muise, an award-winning gospel singer, will be performing at the Congregational Church in Albany. The public is cordially invited to attend the 7 p.m. concert. There is no admission charge; however, a goodwill offering will be received to benefit the Albany Congregational Church. God Bless and Keep.

From the

West Paris Public Library

It's almost that time again. Time for the annual Book/Bake Sale held at the West Paris Public Library, Main Street, Route 219 west in downtown West Paris.

This year, there will be plenty of young adult and children's books for youngsters to choose from as well as a large selection for everyone's summer reading tastes. Speaking of taste, don't forget the home-baked items on sale. What a quick, easy way to whip up dessert for summer guests.

The library is still soliciting for good used books for the sale. Books can be dropped at the library during library hours of Monday and Friday, 1:30 to 6 p.m. and Wednesday, 1:30 to 7 p.m. Or call 674-2004 for pick-up.

The Friends look forward to seeing you, the public and dealers welcome, Saturday, Aug. 3, between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Take a tour of the "Castle" and don't forget to bring a friend.

From the

Mahoosuc Arts Council

On Sunday, July 28, the Mahoosuc Arts Council will host the Mahoosuc Music Makers in concert from 4 to 5 p.m. on the common in Bethel as part of the Libbie Goodridge Kneeland Memorial Summer Series. The Music Makers will perform a repertoire ranging from "oldies but goodies" band standards to theme songs from musicals.

The Mahoosuc Music Makers are a community band that has been in existence since 1993 when they performed their first concert for Mollycodd Day in Bethel. Under the musical direction of Patricia Boyle Wight, the band performs annual Christmas, spring and summer concerts as well as appearances in various local celebrations. Additionally, the Music Makers have provided school programs as part of "Music in Our Schools" during March at Crescent Park School.

Membership includes 150 supporters and musicians. The Music Makers rehearse on Monday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. at the West Paris Congregational Church, Church Street, Bethel. They are always looking for new musicians to join the 30 regular players.

Upcoming concerts in the Gazebo Series will be held on Aug. 4 and feature The Debbie Myers Show performing your country favorites and on Aug. 25 you'll enjoy the rousing rhythms of The Bait the Hook band. The series is sponsored by Mrs. Kneeland's family and honors her life of teaching in the Bethel area and her work with children with learning differences. All concerts begin at 4 p.m. and are free to the public. The rain site is Bingham Auditorium at Gould Academy. For more information, call the Mahoosuc Arts office at 824-3575.

From the

Bethel Rotary Club

This week in Rotary, Rotarian Dan Mooers communicated with us information regarding the Polio Eradication Campaign for this year. Dan is a former Rotary International Board member and was introduced by District Governor Tim Placey.

Dan referred to polio as infantile paralysis and shared how he, as a child, lived in fear of polio in the summer of 1952. In 1961, an oral vaccine was developed and distributed to immunize children in the masses.

Rotary's involvement began in 1979 when campaigns were launched in the Philippines through the 3-H program. There have been 2.5 billion immunizations since and in 1985, there were 350,000 cases. In 2001, the cases were less than 1,000 in 10 endemic countries.

Rotary's role is one of trust — both in honoring our promise to the children and by being an approachable group to administer the vaccination due to Rotary being a non-sectarian, non-governmental organization.

This final push to eradicate polio is a $1-billion campaign being supported by governments around the world, World Bank, The Gates Foundation, and Rotary. Our district and club are being asked to participate in this fundraising so we may fulfill Rotary's pledge made in 1986 to immunize all the children of the world against polio by our centennial celebration in 2005.

To help coordinate our Polio Eradication efforts locally, Cynthia Moran-Laux is our district area rep and Dave Preble is our club rep.

Congratulations to Melissa Bailey on receiving her Rotary scholarship. Melissa attends SMTC for behavioral health.

Inside Rotary: Congratulations on the Moran's Landing dedication. Has anyone seen Jim M.'s rocks? Nice to see all visiting Rotarians and guests.

The Rotary Club of Bethel meets Tuesdays at 7:30 a.m. at The Bethel Inn and Country Club.

From the

Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center

The 22nd annual Sudbury Canada Days, the Bethel Historical Society's summer heritage festival, will be held on Aug. 9, 10 and 11 at the Regional History Center on Broad Street. A wide variety of heritage-oriented activities will be taking place over the three days.

The event will begin on Friday, Aug. 9, with the arrival of a group of Civil War re-enactors portraying the 15th Alabama Volunteer Infantry, Company G. They will be camped on the grounds of the Dr. Moses Mason House for the weekend and will provide a continuous range of activities depicting life during the Civil War period.

Also that evening, the 11th annual Hall Memorial Lecture will be the first official event of this year's festival. Joseph A. Conforti, professor of American and New England Studies at the University of Southern Maine, will be the featured speaker for an illustrated lecture, titled, "From Yankee Doodle to Yankee Go Home: The Odyssey of a Regional Character." A native of Fall River, Mass., Dr. Conforti is a graduate of Springfield College. He holds advanced degrees (M.A. and Ph.D.) from Brown University. He has lectured and written widely on New England topics. His latest book, "Imaging New England: Explorations of Regional Identity from the Pilgrims to the Mid-Twentieth Century," was published last year.

From the Andover Olde Home Days Committee

Plans are well underway for the 23rd annual Olde Home Days Celebration scheduled for Aug. 2 through 4. The theme this year is "Andover, Hospitality Valley." T-shirts and buttons are on sale at local businesses now and will be on sale Friday evening and Saturday. The buttons, with numbers on them, will give everyone a chance to win lots of nice prizes.

In thinking of a theme for this year's festivities, the Olde Home Days Committee decided to concentrate on the several hotels and boarding homes that the town once had. In the late 1800s, Andover boasted three hotels. The first, The Andover House, was built in 1858 and stood where the Andover General Store is today. This hotel is on the Olde Home Days shirts this year. It burned in 1900. French's Hotel was started in 1879, later called The Bluemont Inn, remained until 1905. Their most famous guest had to have been Henry W. Longfellow. He signed the guest book on April 4, 1882. This structure became a private home and burned in 1918. The Milton House was a private home until 1895 when the owners, after making several improvements, opened it as a hotel. It ran with different owners until 1939. Once again becoming a private home, it also later burned. There were two boarding homes, The Poplars and The Gregg House. Also, The Homestead started as a private home and later became a place of lodging. It housed the library and also the post office at one time. Their most famous visitor was Daniel Webster. This beautiful set of buildings is the only one that remains to this day.

Many people from as far away as New York and Boston came to Andover to "get away" and enjoy the clean air and beautiful mountains. Some were passing through on their way to "The Lakes." Some came by train to Bryant Pond and then by horse and carriage to Andover.

Although there are no longer any hotels, Andover does have three rooming houses, The Andover Arms on Main Street, Pine Ellis on Pine Street and The Cabin in East Andover. Today, they cater mostly to hikers during the summer months that want a real bed and food as they stop for a rest and to pick up mail as they hike The Appalachian Trail. All weary travelers are welcome, however.

Several events will return by popular demand. "The Ancient Ones" will set up their tents near the Town Hall and once again depict life in the 1700s and 1800s.

The Ellis River Riders will host the Wing Nuts, a well-known improv group on Friday evening. This is good family entertainment. Admission will be charged. They will also hold an all-game horse show at their arena in South Andover on Saturday, starting at 4 p.m. This fast-paced show will be exciting to watch or participate in. It will feature barrel racing, pole bending and lots of other games. Sunday, starting at 9 a.m., an open house show for both English and Western riders of all ages in showmanship, riding classes, jumping and lead-line will be at the arena in South Andover. Both days are free to spectators. Lots of good food can be had at the "Feed Bag."

Leavin' City Limits will perform a free concert on the common Friday evening.

The Western Maine Street Riders will be on hand with their classic and antique car show all day Saturday.

The parade will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday morning. There will be children's games, fly tying demonstration, fly casting and golf closest-to-the-pin contest, arm wrestling, karaoke and line dancing for your enjoyment and lots of food and fun on the common all day.

The Garden Contest featuring flowers, veggies or mixed gardens will happen again this year, so you'd better start weeding your favorite patch.

The photography contest has become very popular and will be held downstairs at the Town Hall. Photographs will be categorized into three subjects. Group one: Portrait, Animal and Landscape; group two and three are then separated into age brackets, not subject matter; one, 17 years and older — color prints; two, 11 years to 16 — color prints; three, 10 years and under — color prints; four, black and white prints — all ages in one group collectively. There will be 61 ribbons awarded, of which six will be grand prize and one for Best of Show. Best of Show will receive $20. Judging is based on composition, subject matter, artistry, demonstration and clarity. All photographs must be submitted to the Andover Town Hall no later than July 31. This will be strictly enforced, no exceptions. Dates and time to submit photographs are: Saturday, July 27, 1 to 4 p.m.; Monday, July 29, 5 to 8 p.m. and Wednesday, July 31, 4 to 8 p.m. Rules for entry: 1) Each photograph must have name, address and age if under 17 printed on the reverse side of the photograph; 2) No photograph will be accepted with a name on the photo side; 3) Only three photographs in any one subject matter per person; 4) No professionals please. This is strictly for amateurs. If you have already won a first-prize ribbon in any of our past exhibits, please do not submit that photo again. Framed or matted photographs do not enhance the judging, but it does complement the exhibit.

New this year will be a pie-eating contest. And due to the lack of cow chips (our farmers have all sold their cattle), we will have a "Road Apple Roll." These two events should prove to be lots of fun.

Due to circumstances beyond our control, the show, "Footloose," will not happen as previously stated. The Andover Historical Society will hold an open house and Flower Show.

The First Congregational Church will once again hold a "Cookie Walk." Come early as the cookies go very fast. A luncheon, coffee and donuts, Bargain Basement and Silent Auction will also be held at the CEB. If you have anything too good to throw away but want to get rid of it, please consider donating it to the basement sale. Also seeking items for the silent auction. Lots of good things to bid on there.

The Andover Fire Department will have their ever-popular Chicken Bar-B-Que and Fire Muster. Also a BYOB dance, featuring music by "The Travelers," Saturday from 8 p.m. to midnight.

The Olde Home Days Committee has received many complaints about those who bring dogs to the festivities. Please, no dogs allowed unless they are service dogs. The people will thank you and so will your dog.

Obituaries

DONALD B. EDDY
Donald Blakeman Eddy, 89, of Haverford, Pa., formerly of Bethel, died Monday, July 15, 2002, at Bryn Mawr Hospital after a brief illness.
He was born on Jan. 25, 1913, in Avon, Conn., the son of Sherman Willard Eddy and Emily Blakeman. He graduated from Cornell University in 1933 and as an undergraduate spent a year at The Sorbonne in Paris, France. He then married Edith Rose Eaton and started a long career with the State Department in Washington, D.C. During his years in the Foreign Service, they lived in Switzerland and Turkey. After retiring from the U.S. Government, he lived in London, England on assignment for the United Nations and later worked in Bangkok, Thailand for the Ford Foundation. Over his lifetime, he visited more than 50 countries.
He retired to Bethel 30 years ago. For most of the 1970s and 1980s he lived with his wife at Sunset Farm, an idyllic early 19th century home on 20 acres. There he furthered his interests in gemstones, gardening, and environmental issues and he continued his travels. He served on the Bethel Planning Board and in the Bethel Historical Society.
In 1989, after his wife Edith passed away, he moved to The Quadrangle, a retirement community in Haverford, Pa., where he lived out the rest of his years. In spite of a severe stroke almost a decade ago, he took up sculpting of animals in clay and also continued to take long walks and to travel far afield almost until his last days.
He lived nature and supported many environmental causes. He is remembered, by all as a kind and generous man and a true gentleman who was always of good cheer.
He is survived by his son, Sherman of Redmond, Wash.; his daughters, Gretchen of Charlestown, W.Va., and Andrea of Anchorage, Alaska; three grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren.
Services were held Friday, July 19, in Simsbury, Conn., at Simsbury Center Cemetery.

IVY S. BARTLETT
Ivy Small Bartlett, 87, of Hanover, passed away July 17, 2002 at Norway Rehabilitation and Living Center where she had resided for two years.
She was born in Raymond on June 30, 1915, the daughter of Ernest and Bessie Rice Small. She was married to Harold Bartlett Sr. on May 30, 1932 and resided on Middle Intervale Road in East Bethel for many years.
She is survived by a daughter, Alfaretta Ann of Stuart, Fla.; a son, Lindon and his wife Jennie of Hanover; and several nieces, nephews, and cousins. She was predeceased by her husband; a stepson, Edward (Teddy); a son, Harold Jr.; a grandson, Brian Williams of Bethel, Conn.; a brother, Everett; and his wife Marie Small of Raymond.
At Ivy's request, there will be no services. In her memory please send donations to the American Heart Association, 343 Gorham Road, South Portland, ME 04106.

AUDREY MAE MILLER
Audrey Mae Miller, 70, of Main Street, West Paris, died July 22, 2002 in Norway.
She was born in Intervale, N.H., the daughter of Dorothy May Crouse. She had worked as a dietary aide at Market Square Health Care Center, South Paris, for several years. She was a member of the West Paris Grange 298 and had held several offices. She was also a member of the Mollycoddett Sportsman's Club and the Brownfield Historical Society.
She married Howard Miller on Jan. 11, 1947; he died April 18, 2001.
She is survived by one son, Bryan Miller of West Paris; three daughters, Patricia Powers of Stoneham, Viola Whitman of West Paris and Sharon Robbins of Warren; two brothers, Dwinal King of North Conway, N.H., and Paul King of Littleton, N.H.; 10 grandchildren; and 14 great-grandchildren. She was predeceased by a son, Perley Miller in 1987; and a brother, Gilbert King.

Graveside funeral services were held at the Wayside Cemetery, West Paris on Wednesday July 24, with the Rev. Lloyd Waterhouse officiating. Memorials in her memory may be sent to the Androscoggin Home Health, Pottle Road, Oxford, ME 04270.

AGNES M. COFFIN
Agnes M. Coffin, 97, of Milton Plantation, died Saturday, July 20, 2002 at Ledgeview Nursing Home in West Paris.
She was born on May 11, 1905, at Milton Plantation, the daughter of Walter S. and Cora (Buck) Millett. She was educated in Rumford schools and had been a homemaker most of her life.
Agnes was a Golden Sheaf member of the Franklin Grange of Bryant Pond.
She is survived by one son and his wife, Millett and Marie Coffin of Rumford; four grandchildren; seven great-grandchildren; one great-great-grandson; and several nieces and nephews.
Funeral services were held at the Andrews Funeral Home, South Woodstock on Tuesday, July 23, with the Rev. Lloyd Waterhouse officiating. Burial was at the Abbotts Mills Cemetery, Rumford.

RICHARD ALVIN BEAN JR.
Richard "Rick" Alvin Bean Jr., 39, of 321 Number Six Road, Oxford, died on Monday, July 22, 2002 at his home.
Born in Walton, N.Y., Nov. 13, 1962, the son of Richard A. Sr. and Fern M. Bean, he was educated at Oxford Hills, graduating in 1980. At graduation he received the "Golden Hammer" award for excellence in carpentry.
After graduation, Mr. Bean went to work for Burlington Homes and later went to work at Keiser Industries Inc. He stayed with Keiser in a management position during closure and reorganization. In 1999 he was Employee of the Year at Keiser Industries Inc. He served as purchasing agent for many years

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Young

The wedding and reception of Erin Wright of Standish and Pfc. Matthew David Young of Hollis took place on Dec. 28, 2001, at the home of the bride's mother, Joan Greenleaf, also of Standish.
The bride's father is Robert Wright. The groom's parents are David and Marilyn Young of Hollis. Erin is the granddaughter of John and Arlene Greenleaf of Bethel and Barbara and Jim Nason of Sanford.
The newlyweds are 2001 graduates of Bonny Eagle High School in Standish. They are residing near Camp Lejeune, N.C., where the groom is stationed. Young, now a Lance Corporal, is currently on a six-month deployment to Okinawa.
